Dear Harold:

Several years ago, you mentioned that you were looking for someone to translate some material from the Russian language into English and at that time, the only person I knew of was not acceptable to us. However, I have recently come upon a person who has no government affiliation and says that they would gladly be willing to do any translation for me (for you).

If you would still be interested in this service, let me know and I will see that the work is done.

Sincerely,

Emory Brown
